

Better Nutrition For

DAIRY GOAT PRODUCTION

Since 1964 New-Life Mills has sourced the highest quality ingredients for our animal feed programs. Our customers expect optimal growth and production from their livestock - it's what we strive for and the reason we've been in business for 50 years.

Dry Does have unique demands on their bodies. The last 50 days of the dry period are the most important for fetal growth and typically she has more than one to grow! Complete nutrition will ensure that your doe is healthy and ready for kidding and then the demands of lactation; it will also ensure that she births healthy, viable kids for continued success in the goat industry.

Doeling feed programs ideally result in a healthy, high quality milking doe, ready for kidding and milk production. They mature quickly and are bred for lactation at a stage when they are still growing very rapidly themselves. Tailoring nutrition programs to look at their needs is critical to the future of the herd. New-Life Mills specializes in using on farm forages and blending with high quality ingredients for a well balanced ration.

Lactating Does are your business. Achieving sustainable milk production throughout breeding and pregnancy is optimized through quality nutrition. New-Life Mills rations and nutritional supplements facilitate improved health and milk production for your does and her kids - Feeding the Future of profitable performance and production.

Start kids out with optimal nutrition to encourage good health and efficient growth - early nutrition is critical to ensuring a smooth transition to solid feed and the next stages toward being a part of a successful milking herd.
